

What to do right now?

Once you have organized your tasks into a system, you are better able to decide what to do at any particular moment. This flowchart can help you step through the choices.

